I am a Financial Management Specialist, a trainer and consultant in public finance, management of donor funds, enterprise risk management and leadership and governance. I am currently a Principal Lecturer at Kenya School of Government after re-designation from the position of an Assistant Director, Finance and Accounts effecting April 1, 2025.

Prior to my re-designation as a Principal Lecturer, I served as an Assistant Director, Finance and Accounts and Manager, Finance and Accounts where I gained vast experience in planning, organizing, coordinating and control of financial management systems, administrative structures and personnel management; wide experience in development of operational manuals and policies that guide resource mobilization and management, and human capital development. I have also a wide experience in funds management from developing partners in a multi-country environment. From 2015 to 2016, I served as a financial management specialist for Kenya Health Sector Support Programme (KHSSP) in overseeing all aspects of budgeting, financial management; management operations and reporting. This project was a World Bank financed at estimated cost of US$ 5,000,000 and implemented by the eLearning and Development Institute under the Kenya School of Government in partnership with the Ministry of Health. Further, I gained vast experience in development of consultancy proposals, undertaking consultancy assignments in various thematic area in public services, development of training programs curricula, training materials and delivering training programs including board induction and trainings.

Prior to joining Kenya School of Government, from 2010 to 2012, I served as a project accountant and finance manager for Kenya Global Development Centre (Kenya DLC) a World Bank IDA financed project estimated at cost of US$ 85,000,000 and Association of Africa Development Learning Centres (AADLC) a World Bank Trust Fund Project for seventeen (17) Development Learning Centres in Africa estimated at cost of US$ 2,000,000. Under both projects, my key role was to ensure development, review and maintenance of sound financial management systems including a robust accounting system, books of account, an internal control system, enterprise risk management, periodic reporting and auditing arrangements as documented in a financial manual; oversee projects budgeting process, financial management, management operations and reporting, and enterprise risk management; act as a focal point for the project staff in the interpretation, operation and implementation of the organization's financial matters. Further, provided financial support to staff during design of programmes, budget proposal, negotiate contracts and ensure timely disbursement of funds for planned activities; formulation and implementation of best business strategies, business practices, policies and procedures to enhance operational efficiency; preparation of the organization's annual plans, operating budgets and management reports to facilitate decision making by the project director and management; preparation of quarterly Financial Monitoring Reports (FMR) as required by the World Bank.

I hold a Bachelor's degree in commerce (Accounting) from the Kenyatta University, Master's degree in Business Administration (Finance) from the University of Nairobi and currently undertaking a Doctor of Philosophy in Business Administration (Finance) in Jomo Kenyatta University of Agriculture and Technology (JKUAT). I am also a Certified Public Accountant of Kenya and a member of Institute Certified Public Accountants of Kenya in good standing.
