Dear Sir,

APPLICATION FOR THE POSITION OF SENIOR PRINCIPAL LECTURER

I humbly submit this application for consideration for the position of Senior Principal Lecturer.

I am currently undertaking a PhD Programme in Communication and Information Studies at the University of Nairobi. I am a holder of a Master of Arts Degree in Communication Studies and a Bachelor of Education Degree in Linguistics and Literature from the same university. I have also undertaken several professional courses.

I am currently the acting Director of the Institute for Gender and Social Development and Principal lecturer. As acting Director, my responsibilities include to provide support for the strategic direction and leadership of the Institute; Implement management decisions; Plan, develop, and promote delivery of the mandate of the Institute activities and programmes; Ensure prudent and accountable management of the resources and assets; Monitor, evaluate and report performance in all areas of responsibility; and Promote high public service standards including integrity and professionalism.

Under my leadership and during the last three (3) years the Institute has been in existence, the Institute developed and implemented her first Strategic Plan 2021 – 2024. We have also developed and implemented new programs on critical areas in gender and social development. The Institute has successfully accomplished a number of consultancies during the period with positive outcomes and carried out a number of outreach programs in line with the mandate of the School to impact communities. I also led the development of a Customer Service Excellence Training Framework in collaboration with Huduma Kenya that saw the development and launch of five (5) programs in Customer Service Excellence. In March 2025, the Institute held a very successful inaugural Women's Conference on Bridging Generations: Advancing Gender Equality and Harnessing Innovation.

As a Principal Lecturer, my duties include training and facilitation in: Official Protocol and Etiquette, Management Communication, Speech Writing, Conduct of Meetings and Minute Writing, Executive Board Paper Writing and Cabinet Memos, Report Writing, Leadership and Management; Interpersonal Communication, Presentation Skills, Interviewing Skills, Corporate Governance and Board Induction. Other Duties and responsibilities include: Curriculum Development and Review; Rapporteurship in Conferences and workshops; Proposal Writing, Research and Consultancy; and Program Coordination.

As Principal Lecturer, I have been able to successfully carry out key assignments. These include: Leading a team to design, develop and deliver training materials for 'Induction Programme for Strategic Leaders in the Public Service' and Orientation Programme for Parliamentarians' for the United Republic of Tanzania; Development of Internal Communications Policy for Kenya Industrial Property Institute (KIPI); development internal communications policy for Kenya Industrial Property Institute; review and development of Communication Templates for KenGen.

I also spearheaded a team at KSG, in conjunction with the Kenya National Commission on Human Rights (KNCHR). to carry out a TNA, develop and roll out a programme for duty bearers. The training dubbed 'Human Rights and the Big Four Agenda - Promoting Human Rights in Development' saw both county and national government officers trained. The aim of the programme was to enable the duty bearers promote human dignity of individuals and communities by integrating economic, social and cultural rights in their policies, practices and decision making.

I have led teams in curriculum design, development and delivery of communication programmes including Conduct of Meetings and Minute Writing, Report Writing, Speech Writing; Board Paper Writing and Cabinet Memos for the Government of Kenya; The Government of South Sudan; The Federal Government of Somalia; State Government of Puntland; and the United Republic of Tanzania; Leadership and Governance Course in Health Information Systems, and Monitoring and Evaluation for USAID/HIGDA Project; Protocol, Etiquette and Event Management for National Commission for UNESCO (KNATCOM); compilation and publishing of 'Speech Book: The Margaret Kenyatta Selected Speeches';

I have also served as Head of Business Development at the Kenya School of Government (KSG). As head of business development, I liaised both with the national and county governments to generate training and consultancy business; and ensured efficient scheduling of training programmes and optimum capacity utilization. I was also exposed to developing, reviewing and reporting on the Business Development Department's Strategy; providing administrative leadership; executing the KSG business development work plan; and ensuring collaboration relationships with clients. This gave me an opportunity to interact with various development partners.

I am an author of Special Features and Opinion Articles for The Standard and currently writing a book on Etiquette which is at an advanced stage in the publishing process.

For over 25 years I have gained valuable practical experience in management, training and facilitation; and been exposed to working in cross-cultural environments nationally, regionally and internationally. I possess strong communication, leadership, writing and organizational skills. I am a team player, manager and leader with a proven track record in the areas I have served.

I reckon the demands of the position that I am applying for and feel fully competent to handle the responsibilities, given an opportunity.

I herewith enclose my curriculum vitae, copies of my academic and professional certificates and other testimonials for additional information.

Thank you in advance.

Sincerely,
