B. PROFILE

I am an established trainer and consultant in management, leadership and governance for over 30 years. I have developed ability to undertake training needs assessment, develop training curriculum and facilitate training. In this space I have played critical role in development capacity building programmes in various sectors. Of critical importance was the development of the capacity building framework for the Government of South Sudan. I have also developed capacity to coordinate, prepare and implement strategic plans for organizations and mobilize resources for implementation, traits that place me in a strategic position to effectively undertake key assignments in the public service.

I have developed keen interest and experience in Governance, Strategic Management and Leadership, Business Process Re-engineering, Public Sector Reforms, Regional,

National and Local Economic Development as well Sustainable Development. I attained a Master of Arts Degree in Economics from the University of Nairobi, a Bachelor of Commerce Degree also from the University of Nairobi. I also hold a Post Graduate Diploma in Education from Kenyatta University. Currently I am pursuing a PhD. in Development Studies.

I have also undertaken short courses in several key areas, among them: Productivity Management (Federation of Kenya Employers), Leadership in the Public Service (Singapore College of Public Service), Coaching, Mentoring and Counselling (ESAMI), Senior Management Course and Strategic Leadership Development Programme (Kenya School of Government), to name just a few.

My active professional journey started in 1993 at the Kenya Institute of Business Training in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry where I participated in the development and delivery of programmes in enterprise development. I later joined the telecommunications sector at the Kenya College of Communications Technology which is the current Multimedia University of Kenya before joining the Kenya Institute of Administration which is the current Kenya School of Government.
